

The European University Viadrina is an international and interdisciplinary university that educates around 4,000 students from all over the world in law, economics and cultural studies programmes in the twin city of Frankfurt (Oder)-Stubice on the Polish and German sides of the Oder. It lives the European idea in everyday life, promotes European integration in teaching and research and, with around 300 academic and 300 non-academic employees, forms a community that is particularly concerned with successful communication and cooperation with Eastern Europe.

The Chair of Language Practices in Media Cultures invites applications for the position of

Academic staff member (postdoc) (f/m/d/x)

Identification Number: 1311-25-01

(up to salary group 13 TV-L, full time, currently 40 hrs./w)

The appointment is initially limited to three years with the possibility of extension for another three years (in accordance with WissZeitVG).

Responsibilities | Your tasks:

- Teaching 4 SWS (2 seminars of 2 hours per week per semester) for the linguistics and cultural studies programs on bachelor and master level within the thematic area of the professorship
- Supervision of students (incl. bachelor and master theses) and conducting exams
- Research (50% of the working time) for qualification in the context of a habilitation
- Support of research activities at the chair as well as participation in the academic self-administration

Qualifications | Your qualifications profile:

- Above average M.A./M.Ed. degree in linguistics and a very good PhD in the area of media linguistics or cultural linguistics or sociolinguistics
- A research/habilitation project within culturally oriented media linguistics (e.g. with a thematic focus on gender/queer linguistics, language and discrimination, language and social differentiation, human-machine or human-animal relations, posthumanism)
- Experience in teaching at university level and in academic self-administration
- Interest in interdisciplinary work at the intersections of linguistics, media studies, cultural studies, and social sciences, particularly in the interconnectedness of language and society.
- Very good knowledge of English and/or German (at least C1 in one of them). If the candidate has no prior knowledge of German, it should be acquired in the course of two years. Additional language skills are beneficial.
- Knowledge of corpus linguistic methods or corpus-based discourse analysis is desirable

Applications in English or German should include the following documents:

- a letter of motivation
- a comprehensive academic CV
- Degree certificates
- List of publications
- Your PhD and one additional academic publication as pdf files
- Exposé on your research/habilitation project (max. 5 pages)
- Overview on teaching experience and (if available) certificates from higher education didactics (“Hochschuldidaktische Weiterbildung”)

Please submit your application, stating the above-mentioned identification number to bewerbung@europa-uni.de. Kindly submit these materials electronically in one file. The application deadline for this position is March 16th, 2025 (the file will be deleted immediately after the selection procedure has been completed).

Any queries about the position can be directed to Dr. Miriam Lind: lind@europa-uni.de
The First interviews will take place at the end of March.

Further information on our vacancies and our HR policy can be found on our website. The European University Viadrina is committed to diversity and equality for all employees and observes all relevant equality and inclusion measures in the application process. Please see www.europa-uni.de/stellenangebote for further information.